DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

~~(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.~~

2. Claims 1-2 and 4-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Takasu (5,326,991).

Takasu teaches in figure 7 a lateral MOSFET comprising a 3C (column 3, line 67) SiC layer 22 (column 4, lines 54-55) located on a buried oxide layer 20 in a silicon substrate, a gate 32 formed on the SiC layer and N type source and drain regions located in the SiC layer, within a P type tub, and laterally offset from the gate, wherein the breakdown voltage of SiC layer is greater than that of a silicon.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2811

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-2, 4-9 and 3, 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takasu.

Takasu teaches substantially the entire claimed structure, as applied to claim 1 above, except using the MOSFET as a power switch employed in a power train of a power converter.

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the MOSFET structure of Takasu as a power switch employed in a power train of a power converter in order to the device to a particular application. Furthermore, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

Regarding claim 3, it is known in the art that a SiC layer has a breakdown voltage of 10 volts, of which judicial notice may be taken.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant argues on page 5 that Takasu fails to disclose a silicon carbide layer located on or within a substrate, because oxide layer 20 in figure 7 is not part of the substrate.

It is well known in the art that semiconductor devices can be formed on a silicon substrate or an SOI substrate. The oxide layer of an SOI substrate is part of the substrate. Therefore, Takasu teaches a silicon carbide layer located on or within a substrate, as claimed.

conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
